King Conservation District moves to new offices in Renton

RENTON—The King Conservation District (King CD) has relocated to new offices at 1107 SW Grady Way, Suite 130, in Renton, WA 98057.

The new location provides more efficient and eco-friendly work space for district staff, improved space for consultations with cooperators and project partners and convenient parking for visitors, according to King CD Executive Director Jeffrey Possinger. The new offices are located a few blocks from the previous location Renton.

The new main phone number is 425-282-1897.

“Remaining in Renton was an important factor for us. It’s close to our native plant nursery, is centrally located, and the changes to our district offices are a continuation of the district’s emphasis on effectiveness and customer service,” said Possinger.

About the King Conservation District:

The King CD provides information and technical assistance programs that are available to all landowners within the district’s boundaries (most of King County) on a voluntary, non-regulatory basis. The district provides grants for conservation-focused projects and programs and initiates community outreach activities that include workshops, education programs, site visits, farm plans, and consultation on land, water, and wildlife management.

As one of 47 conservation districts in the state, King CD is a natural resources assistance agency authorized by the State of Washington and guided by the Washington State Conservation Commission.
